TRANSPORTATION

There will be no symposium-sponsored transportation provided, other than for the Exhibition Reception Tour that will take place on Friday evening, October 13th. Those intending to tour the receptions must check that option when registering online for the symposium. There is no charge for the Exhibition Reception Tour, but registration is required so that we can contract adequate shuttle service.

Airport/Airport Transportation (DTW)

DTW services those arriving to and/or departing from the Detroit area.

Q Line

The 3.3-mile streetcar route which includes 20 stations serving 12 locations and connect riders to key destinations along Woodward Avenue. The streetcar serves curb-side stations for nearly the entire length of the route, transitioning to center-running at the north and south ends of the system.

People Mover

The Detroit People Mover is an automated light rail system operating on an elevated track in downtown Detroit's Business District. The shuttle-style circulator service has 13 stations, placing you steps away from sporting and entertainment venues, restaurants, lodging and landmarks.

Uber

Use the iPhone or Android app or call (313) 451-4549 to request a ride. Within minutes an Uber will arrive curbside at your location and we'll text you when it arrives. After arriving at your destination, Uber will charge your credit card on file and email you a receipt.

Taxi

It's best to call one rather than attempt to flag one down. A couple of local taxi service in Detroit include the following:

Checker Cab (313) 963-7000

Checker Sedan (313) 963-1000

Metro Cars (800) 456-1701

Detroit Department of Transportation (DDOT)

Though inexpensive, this may not be the most convenient option.
